

Meet the Teacher

About Me

My career has lasted for 2 decades. I began working in Early Childhood in April 1999. I began working at Next Door working and Educare in August 2005. I took a hiatus in June 2018 and I returned to Next Door in January 2019.

Personal Statement

The reason I teach is because I enjoy watching children reach the milestones of growing and knowing that what they learn will change their lives. Through teaching I feel like I'm changing the world. I love assisting families with helping their children to better understand themselves, others, the world and their place in it. One of my greatest joys is creating opportunities for children to use their knowledge to make a positive and profound impact on themselves and the world.

"Do not confine your children to your own learning, for they were born in another time."
- Chinese proverb

"Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world."
- Nelson Mandela
